

Sacramento County District Attorney's Office

ANNE MARIE SCHUBERT
District Attorney

Stephen J. Grippi
Chief Deputy

Michael A. Neves
Assistant District Attorney

July 19, 2017

Non-Violent Parole Review Process
Board of Parole Hearings
Correspondence – NV
P.O. Box 4036
Sacramento, CA 95812-4036

RE: Sabrina Moore CDCR No. WF4495 15F07788/16FE001720

Inmate Moore is the worst kind of thief. She steals victims' identities. She then uses those identities to fraudulently obtain property, ruining the credit history of her victims. The impact to victims' credit history and/or livelihood lasts for years, if not forever. The circumstances surrounding both Inmate Moore's current conviction as well as her prior criminal record, clearly demonstrates that she poses an unreasonable risk to the community. As such, Inmate Moore should not be paroled.

Inmate Moore's history of identity theft dates back to 2009 in West Virginia where she was convicted of issuing/making worthless checks. Six years and 3,000 miles later, Inmate Moore brought her conduct to California. On February 20, 2015, Inmate Moore walked into Macy's and selected items. Not wanting to pay for those items like everyone else, she walked out with them. When Loss Prevention Officers (LPOs) contacted Inmate Moore in order to stop her, she fought with the LPO. During this struggle, she bit both LPOs.

Of course this is not the first crime Inmate Moore had committed in the Golden State. When arrested for the robbery at Macy's, officers discovered that she had numerous warrants out for her arrest. She was wanted for 2 counts of obtaining public assistance by fraud (W&I Code 11482.5), and 4 counts of identity theft (Penal Code 530.5(a)). Inmate Moore had defrauded public funds which are used to assist the most vulnerable members of this state, and she had ruined the credit of 4 individuals. Inmate Moore pleaded to the all of the above charges in March 2015.

Then 8 months later, upon her release from custody, she immediately engages in the exact same conduct. Inmate Moore fraudulently purchased a vehicle from a local dealership with the fraudulent identification of [REDACTED] from New York as well as a fraudulent check from out of state. Inmate Moore's ruse was later discovered and she was arrested later while driving the fraudulently purchased vehicle. During this arrest, Inmate Moore continued to lie and deceive officers by identifying herself as [REDACTED]. Considerable resources were required to determine Inmate Moore's true identity.

On December 22, 2015, Inmate Moore attempted to fraudulently purchase items at JC Penny's. Inmate Moore presented fake identity (complete with matching photograph of Inmate Moore) and a fake check of a [REDACTED]. Upon discovering that her attempted purchase utilizing fraudulent documents, Inmate Moore lied by again identifying herself as [REDACTED]. These actions indicate a sophisticated plan of action on the part of Inmate Moore as it is not an easy proposition to obtain a driver's license with a fake name, yet with a correct photograph.

A review of Inmate Moore's RAP sheet shows that she is engaging in similar conduct in other jurisdictions. Inmate Moore has arrests for similar conduct in Roseville, Fairfield and Auburn. There can be no doubt that Inmate Moore has been, is, and will continue to be the worst kind of thief. There is also no doubt that anything Inmate Moore says or does is likely laden with deceit.

I am unable to comment on Inmate Moore's disciplinary history while incarcerated as I only have 30 days in which to respond. However, given Inmate Moore's record it is clear that Inmate Moore should not be released because she poses a significant and unreasonable risk to the community. As such parole should be denied.

Very Truly Yours,

ANNE MARIE SCHUBERT
DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Mark Ott
Deputy District Attorney