RE: Timmons, Bobby Ray, CDC: #AN-4825

In 2008, inmate Timmons entered a Bank of America and attempted to cash a check he knew to be fraudulent. An alert bank teller recognized immediately the check was a fake and notified his manager who called the police. Inmate Timmons left the bank immediately and moments later, was apprehended by the Sacramento Sheriff's Department without incident.

Since 1976, inmate Timmons has found trouble with the law for a myriad of reasons. Burglary and vehicle theft arrests from the California Bay Area to the Sacramento Valley pepper his rap sheet. While on probation for a burglary in 1986, inmate Timmons was arrested, months later, for another burglary. While on probation for the 2nd burglary, inmate Timmons was arrested for yet another burglary. Again, in 1986, officers were dispatched to a residential burglary in progress. When the officers arrived on scene, they found inmate Timmons inside the home and he was arrested without incident. Within months of that arrest, inmate Timmons was picked up for petty theft. But it wasn't until his releases from either county jail and/or prison that he started a more dangerous criminal venture—driving under the influence. From, at least, 1986 to 2006, inmate Timmons has a history littered with drug and/or alcohol violations and only his prison/county jail stays seem to curb those habits.

Since [REDACTED] 2002, inmate Hanson has proven time and time again that he is a career criminal and uninterested in living any other way. His most recent offense of burglary is yet another example of the lengths he will go to continue on his lawless path. However, to label inmate Timmons a "Non-Violent Second Striker," is to diminish his record as a whole. His total and blatant disregard for anyone beyond himself makes him dangerous to our entire community. The fact that he has not killed anyone while behind the wheel of a car and under the influence is nothing short of a miracle. It is for these reasons that the Sacramento County District Attorney's Office opposes the early release for inmate Timmons.

Respectfully,

Robin B. Shakely, Sacramento County Assist Chief Deputy District Attorney
